

AbstractMethod for Controlling a Motor Vehicle

The present invention relates to a method for controlling a motor vehicle, in particular a traction-slip control system system (TCS), wherein a diagonal axle twist is detected and evaluated as a regulating variable.

(Fig. 1)